

Benefits of Owning a Clark Tank

1. Raised outlets and overflows -
 - ◆ Ensures a full tank of water.
2. Moulded overflows in roof -
 - ◆ Ensures practical plumbing solutions for most situations.
3. Australian standards state capacity is tested to inlet -
 - ◆ Clark Tanks tested to overflow ensures real value.
4. Seam mark where mould joins runs horizontally around the top rib - not vertically down and underneath the tank -
 - ◆ Ensures weak spots (if any) from imperfections in the mould join are up high and away from main pressure, where as vertical mould joins can have weak spots down on the bottom few ribs and/or underneath where the most pressure is.
5. Tanks are moulded in one piece and don't have screw on lids -
 - ◆ Ensures that tanks remain sealed and eliminates the possibility of vermin entering the tank.
6. A 30° bevel on ribs allows an even distribution of Granulated Polyethylene during the roto moulding process -
 - ◆ Ensures the required even thickness giving maximum strength.
7. Shorter thicker ribs and more of them than most ribbed tanks -
 - ◆ Ensures maximum strength -
8. Broad base bottom rib for placement of brass outlet and gate valve at any position with no in-mould poly thread -
 - ◆ Ensures cost effective and convenient plumbing with no chance of damaging any poly thread with brass outlet.
9. Poly is fitted with moulded pole caps using a lead free PVC pole -
 - ◆ Ensures that the pole stays stable and water remains non-toxic.
10. Extra thick walls towards the base of the tank -
 - ◆ Ensures maximum strength where the most pressure is.
11. HIAB crane available at no extra cost for larger tanks -
 - ◆ Ensures that the installation of the tank is safe and easy.
12. Clark tanks are manufactured from food grade UV treated polyethylene to meet Australian Standards 4020. This material will not rust or corrode and has no fibres and will not taint the taste of the water -
 - ◆ Ensures tank holds good clean water for a minimum of 25 years.
13. Full fix or replace 25 year Guarantee - No Pro Rata -
 - ◆ Along with the benefits outlined above it ensures complete peace of mind on the purchase of your Clark Tank.
